Surveillance cameras can be an effective tool in deterring criminal activity and rules violations in the community. If residents wish to install surveillance cameras, you should ensure (1) that surveillance cameras are not installed in areas where homeowners may have a reasonable expectation of privacy, (2) that all surveillance cameras are operable at all times and are capable of recording onto a medium which can be easily stored and later referenced, and (3) that Dummy or otherwise inoperable cameras are avoided at all times in order to prevent creating a false sense of security for homeowners.
